Communication pack

This communication pack has been produced by Girlguiding Cymru, with members in mind.

This pack has been designed for nonverbal /nonspeaking members and members who may have ASD or may be neurodivergent. The resources contained will support young members to access guiding and communicate with leaders and peers. Did you know that girls are often diagnosed with autism far later than their male counterparts, with research suggesting that just 20% of girls with ASD are diagnosed with autism spectrum condition (ASC) prior to the age of 11, compared to 50% of boys.

This pack contains

- 1) Communication board
- 2) Communication strips
- 3) Visual timetables
- 4) Now and then board
- 5) Cut out cards for above
- 6) Warning light systems
- 7) Keyfob cards
- 8) Promise resources

Where grey sections are shown, this must have Velcro attached after lamination

Please ensure that you have the full permission and support of parent/s or guardians and the member themselves before using this pack.

How to use

The first part of the pack is designed to be used in stages. Work with parent/s or guardian/s to ascertain what level the member may be accessing in their education setting.

The steps

Part 1) The Brownie uses a single image to communicate what they want from a simple selection and they can hand this to a leader.

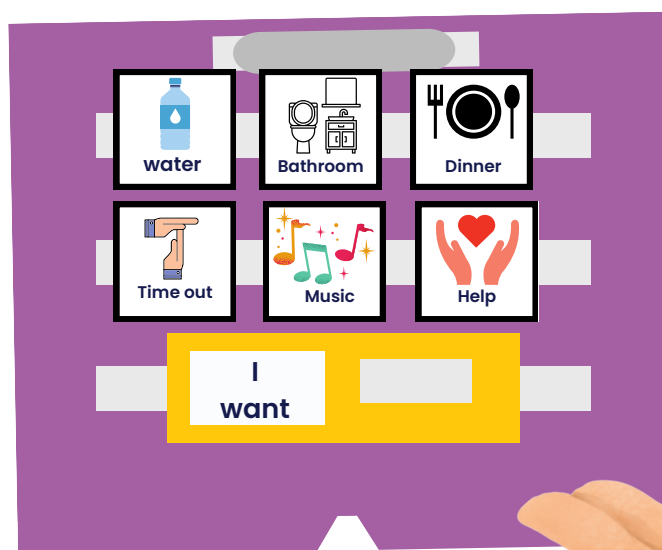

Part 2) The Brownie uses single pictures and can be encouraged to communicate with leaders in different locations.

Part 3) The Brownie uses two options only and will hand them to their chosen leader they should be placed on the communication board to choose from.

Part 4) The Brownie uses a simple select to create a sentence on the coloured Velcro strips. This can then be handed to the leader who can read it out to the rainbow.

Part 5) The Brownie uses the cards to show they have understood your question and can respond using a card eg: Do you need the toilet?

Part 6) The Brownie uses the system to comment on things eg: I feel happy. They may include peers.

It is important to try and grant any requests that are made unless they are disruptive, inappropriate or you can sense a pattern forming.

How to use

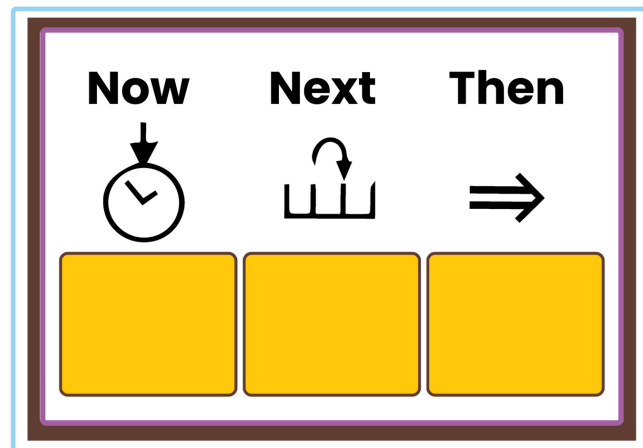

Now, Next, Then

The now, next and then board is excellent for setting and managing expectations for both leaders and Brownies. It can help girls to understand what is happening and what they are expected to do.

It can sometimes help members to understand that they have to complete a task they are not keen to do in order to take part in activity that they love. For instance, If you have a Rainbow who does not like using the toilet you could have the following sequence:
toilet > hands > colouring

The other part of the pack is designed to be used to support the member in meetings.

Work with parent/s or guardian/s to ascertain what is best for the member.

Brownies Visual timetable

Visual Timetable

The visual timetable is an excellent communication method for all Rainbows.

It helps all girls understand the flow of the evening and what is expected of them. You can use this to answer the age old question "what are we doing tonight"? You should remove each activity as it is complete.

Some Brownies may prefer a linear timetable which can be made by sellotaping 5 sheets together lengthways and attaching a line of Velcro on the length. This can be used to show the whole evenings activities.

This can be used in all situations. clocks are also included if leaders wish to use times.

You can print out more than one sheet if you wish.

How to use

Stages board

The stages board may help some members who need support with appropriate behaviour.

This is a clear way to show them that they may need to stop doing something that may be unsafe or upsetting others.

It is very important that leaders work with parents to create guidelines of what are controllable actions. This system should not be used for actions that are non-controllable eg: ADHD-fidgeting. ASD - sensory seeking.

The time to reflect should be agreed by parent/s or guardians and can be sitting with a leader to think about what they have done or calling parents to collect.

Keyfob

The keyfob of cards is ideal to use as a non verbal visual prompt to either encourage or discourage certain behaviours.

it is perfect for use at meetings or while out and about on trips.

You will need to cut out the cards and then laminate them. Then cut them out with a 2mm laminate border. You can the metal hoop and keychain parts online.
